TAYLOR'S VORTEX XR LAB

Taylor's University has expanded its education from classroom and online lectures into the virtual world of extended reality (XR). XR is an emerging umbrella term describing current immersive technologies, namely augmented reality (AR), virtual reality (VR) and mixed reality (MR). # WHY DESIGN AT TAYLOR'S?

Taylor'sphere, our balanced ecosystem of community, facilities and features, is focused on equipping students with intellect, creativity and practical wisdom to graduate in demand for the ever-evolving landscape. Your journey in design studies as a Taylorian will be immersed within this ecosystem that will empower your aspirations and enable you to rise with the best, where our community is our strength.

YOUR FUTURE IS OUR PRIORITY

We ensure that our students are in touch with current and future trends and are well-equipped to embrace the challenges of the 4IR and ever-evolving design landscape.

MULTIDISCIPLINARY LEARNING EXPERIENCE (MLE)

Taylor's is one of the pioneer institutions in the region to implement compulsory multidisciplinary projects across all its undergraduate programmes. Multidisciplinary solutions go beyond just collaborating, but rather having a good understanding of learning necessities across various disciplines against being discipline-specific which will no longer be enough.

THINK. DESIGN. PROVOKE.

Three powerful words we impart to our students, urging them to explore their creativity and create beyond aesthetics, with purpose and mindful strategy behind every piece.

TAYLOR'S CURRICULUM FRAMEWORK (TCF)

The first of-its-kind framework in Malaysia that allows you to mix and match your degree, thus gaining multiple specialties to enhance your employability.

BREAK BOUNDARIES TOGETHER

We encourage our students to break boundaries to realise their imagination. And to not just think outside the box, but to create their own benchmarks, and break them. After all, this is a field where being unconventional, bold and experimental is celebrated.

EXTENSIVE INDUSTRY EXPOSURE

Our students engage in strategic collaborations with industry leaders, solve real-world challenges, and participate in local and international showcases, graduate showcases, field trips and site visits.

GLOBALISATION

Our students absorb artistic influences from different parts of the world via Activity Week, intercultural design, international workshops and more, to produce international-standard work.

WIDE ARTISTIC INFLUENCE

We actively engage and establish valuable linkages with the industry throughout Asia, while our students are given the opportunity to work alongside professionals on various real-world projects and case studies.

WORLD-CLASS STANDARDS, FACILITIES AND ENVIRONMENT

Our campus is built with our students in mind – your university is your second home. Taylor's Lakeside Campus encompasses a modern, functional design with state-of-the-art facilities together with lush greenery and its trademark 5.5-acre lake; striking a balance between form and function to embody our modern approach and perspective in premium education with an approach to holistic growth outside the classroom.

PERSONALISED AI-POWERED LEARNING

As one of Malaysia's pioneering institutions in AI-driven innovation, we offer personalised one-on-one 24/7 tutoring, focused Q&A sessions, assessments and instant feedback, supported by our AI teaching assistant. Students enjoy an engaging experience that encourages self-directed growth and better understanding.

INTERNATIONALISATION

The combination of different learning environments and approaches produces design graduates who can appreciate and develop universally appealing work that cuts across barriers of culture, religion, and environment.

ACTIVITY WEEK

Students are given the opportunity to travel and explore new surroundings, cultures, languages, perception, and values that further enhance their appreciation for design ideas. This also gives students first-hand insight into the impact of different environments and cultures on design.

- Australia
- Berlin
- Cambodia
- China
- Ecuador
- Germany
- Hong Kong
- India
- Indonesia
- Italy
- Japan
- Korea
- Peru
- Russia
- Spain
- Thailand
- Turkey
- United Kingdom

Design is subjective and being able to observe and interpret different themes based on social and cultural influences in wide time periods was an eye-opening experience. I kept looking back at last year's Activity Week in Japan, the heart of anime culture, where we saw fantastic works and expressions from prominent artists.

Nur Rahila Aleem
Bachelor of Design (Honours)
Creative Media

INTERCULTURAL EXCHANGE

Students are introduced to Asian design culture and their influences, in an ongoing effort to redefine the standards of design education in Asia. The trips involve research, exploration and project-based activities.

- Tokyo, Japan
- Osaka, Japan
- Hong Kong
- Seoul, South Korea
- Bangkok, Thailand

Intercultural Design was an enriching and unique experience for me. Though there were many limitations in my learning, through perseverance and creativity we were able to create a culturally enriched project on a dying craft. You're basically required to travel and experience new things. This class additionally taught me how to be cooperative and get out of my comfort zone.

Ibrahim Fazal Ahmed

Bachelor of Design (Honours) Creative Media

My experience at Taylor's was memorable. Taylor's prepared me for the industry not only about the things I should do within my field, but they also guided me in shaping my skills in communication, dealing with clients and striving for the best.

Amer Eizwann

Bachelor of Arts (Honours) in Interactive Multimedia Design (now known as Creative Media)
Producer & Senior Videographer at WSVS Studio

SITE VISIT

Students gain exposure to realistic and physical built environments through site visits. These visits enable students to put their design theories into practice, while teaching them the purpose and process of space creation as well as how to compose and analyse space.

Overall process and organising the design graduation showcase was a fantastic learning experience. Through the organising preparations, we faced the ups and downs with the knowledge and skills we honed throughout the years of study. We are glad we managed to put up a successful showcase and continue to observe the parts we could deliver better for future reference.

SPECIALISATION SYNOPSIS

SPATIAL DESIGN I

This module is designed to introduce the student to the fundamentals of the design process within the context of spatial design for human habitation and work. It underlines the foundation of specialist knowledge and appreciating the scope and context of the discipline. The idea of the module is to explore design inspiration that is functional, expressive, and considers the surrounding environments. The purpose of the module is to enable students to express ideas and inspiration, defining multi-functional design in a compact environment, application of colours, selection of materials and demonstrating spatial detailing in a design project.

SPATIAL DESIGN II

The module emphasises establishing concepts and programming in the exterior spatial environment, introducing students to experimental concepts in spatial environments. Students are required to manage the design framework in the design process and execute works till completion. They also need to be able to analyse and interpret existing sites and conditions to build a sense of place in visually immersive artwork exhibits. Students focus on refitting, reusing, adapting, and attending to materials, surfaces, patterns, fabrication, and connections.

APPLICATION DESIGN I

This module guides students to understand and apply theories and practices of usability. Students should be able to gain practical knowledge of the opportunities and limitations of designing for a mobile platform through experimentation. This module gives students an opportunity to understand and apply the practices of 'user-testing' and learn new practical skills in design for usability on mobile platforms. This module aims to broaden the students' understanding of 'usability' by applying its theories and standards to design for mobile applications.

APPLICATION DESIGN II

This module allows students to understand and apply the technology and practices of 2 major mobile operating systems, Android and iOS, and experience practical knowledge of designing for a mobile platform by mobile user interaction. Students will have an opportunity to understand and apply the practices of 'user-testing' and learn new practical skills in design for usability on mobile platforms.

PROGRAMMING

This module introduces the fundamentals of programming using Python for students without prior knowledge of programming. Topics covered include data types, control flow, and simple problem-solving in using computer programming. The learning and teaching approach for the module is that students will be taught programming syntax, rules, and principles in the classroom, engage with practical tasks during the lab sessions, and present their ideas and solution within the group.

ENVIRONMENT DESIGN

Environment Design brings unique story world concepts to life for video games, animation and the film industry that would not be possible to visualise before the production begins. This module will provide students with perspective techniques to produce accurate, believable objects and environments using several traditional and digital tools in creating effective and naturalistic settings and forms while exploring environment design principles such as structure, spatial perspective, accuracy, and realism. The module will introduce students to the study of environments and their influence on storytelling, with a strong focus on the relationship between form and function.

3D MODELLING

This module introduces students to the concepts and practice of the 3D modelling pipeline to provide a visual look using various concepts that go into the production of games, animations, and interactive media. Students will obtain in-depth knowledge of 3D tools used in the industry and how to apply them to their proposed final visual aesthetics. Learning will be strongly supported by the understanding and use of the relevant software and hardware.

ADVANCED MODELLING AND ANIMATION

This module equips students to build upon modelling basics that have been introduced in the 3D Modelling module. It provides the foundation for advanced animation construction with an emphasis on rigging, toolkits, and next-generation modelling techniques to produce an optimised animation loop. Learning will be primarily studio-based as well as student-centred and delivered via demonstration and practice with directed and independent learning.

GAME STUDIES

This module analyses the common gameplay elements in various games including both analogue and digital games. This module studies what makes a particular game interesting to play regardless of its medium. Students will apply basic investigative and research skills to analyse, conceptualise, and identify common patterns in gameplay designs which would lead to innovative game design prototypes.

GAMES DEVELOPMENT

This module focuses on game-specific design issues and enhances understanding of basic game concepts. Students will learn how to critically analyse users' needs and define user experience through systematic research principles. After which students will apply their research to the design of a new game or prototype. Students will learn the principles behind designing specifically for the games industry, be introduced to the concept of 'playability', and learn how to use industry-standard authoring software such as Unity Development Engine to an intermediate level.

HOME AUTOMATION

This module introduces students to the fundamental principles, techniques and technologies required to execute a Home Automation project through solutions based on the most up-to-date standards in the market. The basic understanding of Home Automation technology is to allow users to monitor their homes through phones from anywhere and can have control of their devices at the same time. Students are expected to acquire knowledge in proprietary systems to implement a unique solution that will be able to design the integration of other system networks.

ADVANCED HOME AUTOMATION

This module is to cover the lack of professionalisation in the Automation field and the training needs of companies dedicated to automation in the industrial, residential and educational areas, mainly in activities related to engineering and projects, construction, commissioning of facilities, operation and maintenance, and the production and/or distribution of materials, equipment, and services. Students are expected to acquire knowledge in proprietary systems to carry out projects in the home automation industry sector. This module will develop first-hand knowledge and experience, equipping students with the necessary technological tools for the current professional scene.

INTERNET OF THINGS

The purpose of this module is for students to understand and learn how physical objects interact with people, information systems, other objects, and the environment. Also, to learn the importance of Internet of Things (IoT) in society, devices, and trends for the near future. Students will learn what the IoT is, how it works, concepts and underlying principles, technologies, architecture, communication protocols, security, privacy and governance in IoT, and IoT applications in the modern world. The focus will be on the possibilities offered by different technologies, creative thinking and problem-solving by developing simple applications in real-life scenarios using IoT devices. Students will be using Raspberry Pi, Arduino devices, and IoT kits to design and create solutions for simple real-life applications.

INTERACTIVE DESIGN

This module introduces students to the concepts and practice of designing for interactive applications and web mediums, with digital tools for Web Learning strongly supported by the understanding and use of the relevant software and hardware. The learning and teaching approach for the module will be blended learning, with students engaging with content during lectures and assigned designated topics in flipped classrooms. Communication aspects with respect to answering user needs are emphasised. Students will be introduced to Web-specific coding and technical skills to design and develop non-linear interactive pieces.

ADVANCED INTERACTIVE DESIGN

This module explores the advanced theory and practice of interactive design. It is an extension of the Interactive Design module. This module explores further exploration of application design for screen design. Learning will be in studio-based learning sessions. There will be a series of lectures, tutorials, and practicals in class.

EMBEDDED SYSTEMS

This module prepares students for a conceptual learning process of interactive technologies and the diversified media approaches that exist within the spatial design context. It provides a foundation of theoretical understanding of the various approaches available within the spatial design context such as the performing arts, digital media, spatial interaction, anthropology, sociology, cybernetics, cognitive neuroscience, and aesthetics. Assessment will be done through a progression of research, media and prototyping ideas which will be assessed through a range of mediums such as film, art installations, animation, live presentation, and virtual and augmented environments. It supports the creative learning process and problem-solving skills needed for the learning of interactive technologies and their application to real-world systems.

PERFORMATIVE MEDIA

This module equips students for the execution and implementation of conceptual interactive technologies developed in the Embedded Systems module. Students are exposed to new media and technological approaches to performative-based spaces and installations. The implementation of the performative-based space or installation will draw upon one or several disciplines such as the performing arts, digital media, spatial interaction, anthropology, sociology, cybernetics, cognitive neuroscience, and aesthetics.

LIGHTING INTERACTIVE DESIGN

This module equips students to develop interactive lighting design using micro-controllers, sensors and programming as media. Students will be using software such as Arduino, Touch Designer and Circuit Playground to develop responsive light environments which are primarily based on sensory input. The students will be guided on creating interactive lighting installations through face-to-face interaction in workshops, demonstrations, and tutorials. The emphasis of the learning approach would be centred mainly on a problem-based learning approach to enable the students to learn through problems encountered in lighting interaction design controllers.

COMPUTER VISION AND NATURAL LANGUAGE PROCESSING

The module emphasises the study of processing the three kinds of data in machines: speech, text, and image. Students will be exposed to different algorithms, frameworks, and tools that can be used to process speech, text, and images. Students will be exposed to different case studies and examples of their applications as well as research problems.

EXPERIENTIAL DESIGN

Experience design is the practice of designing products, processes, services, events, and environments, each of which is a human experience based on the consideration of an individual or group's needs, desires, beliefs, knowledge, skills, experiences, and perceptions. An emerging discipline, experience design attempts to draw from many sources including cognitive psychology and perceptual psychology, cognitive science, architecture and environmental design, haptics, product design, information design, information architecture, ethnography, brand management, interaction design, service design, storytelling, heuristics, and design thinking. This module introduces the student to the concept of 'experiential' design where user interaction takes place in a physical but computer-controlled environment, for example, using pressure pads, microphones, webcams, or other external devices to control the user experience and interaction.

MULTIDISCIPLINARY PROJECT I

The Multidisciplinary Project I module enables students to deepen their understanding of design processes/methodologies and reflect upon their relevance and effects on real-life design projects that they are working on. In this manner, students develop their potential to be reflective practitioners, constantly seeking to understand the contexts and extend the effects of their design work. Industrial training provides students with real-life experience in an actual working environment. Students will receive a visit from their academic supervisor and the industry supervisor is required to monitor and report on their progress and performance. Students undergoing international placement will be supervised via online communication. Students will undergo 16 weeks of internship with a leading design company.

MULTIDISCIPLINARY PROJECT II

The Multidisciplinary Project II module comprises multidisciplinary project-based learning which allows multifaceted real-world problems to be resolved with solutions addressing technical, business, and social aspects. The module allows students to creatively engage with issues relating to the designer's widening role in society, culture, and technology. This module allows students the option of collaborating within multi-disciplinary groups or small teams. A high level of methodological analysis is expected where students apply their discipline-specific knowledge in a multidisciplinary setting through working on multidisciplinary projects with students from different disciplines. Moreover, this module will develop a holistic approach through critical design development and synthesise these skills for a design solution.

INDUSTRY PROJECT I

Industry Project I is a Work-based Learning (WBL) experience where students shall be placed in the industry for 16 weeks duration to deepen their understanding of technologies, techniques, and theoretical concepts. The module encompasses a range of designed environment practices in a real-life experience which be able to address specific industry needs. The learning and teaching approach for the module will involve hands-on practical work by the assigned WBL coach based on the guided project direction provided by the WBL Tutor.

INDUSTRY PROJECT II

Industry Project II is the continuation of the Industrial Project I Work-based Learning progression. Students shall be placed in the industry for another 16 weeks to deepen their understanding of technologies, techniques, and theoretical concepts relevant to a dynamic professional context encompassing a range of designed environment practices. Students are to reflect upon their relevance and effects on real-life projects to address specific industry needs and gain relevant experience by applying knowledge to a workplace context.

TECHNOPRENEURSHIP PROJECT I

In this module, learners shall be placed in an incubator over a period of 15 weeks to analyse and design a product that has a technopreneurship potential. The training at the incubator will expose the students to a real technopreneurship environment. The learning and teaching approach for the module will involve initial face-to-face briefings on salient topics coupled with periodic consultative sessions involving both academic and incubator supervisors through independent and self-directed learning and online consultations.

TECHNOPRENEURSHIP PROJECT II

This module is a follow-through from Technopreneurship Project I and learners will go through the process of developing a Technopreneurship product at a minimum viable product (MVP) level and be able to market the product during the duration of this module. Students will be exposed to a real technopreneurship environment at incubators. This module is taught using project-based learning, through combinations of guided online learning, consultation sessions with technopreneurship experts, and independent learning sessions. The learning is facilitated mostly through work observations and review sessions with academic and incubator supervisors. Students will be assessed on problem-solving and creative thinking skills, communication and entrepreneurial skills through the final presentation, project report, showcase to industry clients and an industrial report; assessed both by academic examiners and incubator supervisors. The assessments will facilitate students to develop lifelong learning ethical values in global contexts.

ELEVATE YOUR CAREER READINESS

Work-based learning (WBL) provides students hands-on experience with industry partners for a year. During this duration, they will gain real-world, practical learning experiences.
